

BAIRD & POULTRY PRODUCTS

Trading has been much better this week. Demand still shows a decided improvement. Most of best buyers, sales being mostly for small lots and not over a week's supply at a time. Demand for small supply and demand has been well illustrated by the way egg prices have ranged from 42-45 cents. Consumption started up and then prices gained almost daily with the increasing demand. Western wanted at 44-45 cents and are now up to 48-52 cents, while western fresh jumped from 35 cents to 42-45 cents. Western wanted at 40-42 cents and are now up to 44-46 cents, thus showing the increased demand, these advancing to 52-55 cents. Butter prices also recovered, bringing up to 37 cents and closing at 36 cents, while northern prints have been fairly wanted at 40-42 cents. Western fresh and Chicago has held steady at 30-35 cents. Cheese has not changed, but butter is bringing 21-22 cents and the cured lots sold at 22-24 cents, but the tone in none too good. Arrivals of both fresh milked and live poultry have been much smaller, no doubt, due to being started earlier, but prices holding stock back for the present. Live birds have sold easily at 50-55 cents, but the demand for turkeys is increasing. Dressed poultry has been a little firmer on the really fancy stuff, but the bulk of the market for all kinds have hard sale even at sharp reductions, some inferior lots bringing only 20-25 cents. Turkeys have been sold at 34-38 cents, fowl at 30-35 cents, and roosters have been taken freely at 22-24 cents.

FRUITS AND VEGETABLES

Trading has been quieter than at any time since the holidays, with most of the activity for many important lines. Apples were in light supply but ample for most of the season. The market for No. 1 Maine Baldwin out of cold storage, New York City, was $2.00 a bushel, while the same grade of cold storage, California cantalow steady at $1.75-2.25 a crate. The Maine department of inland fish and game has recently received a request to ship 25,000 landlocked salmon eggs to Tasmania. The department has already shipped eggs to this antipodal island once in 1910 and again in 1918. Their fish have thrived well, so the Tasmanians say, but because of two excessive rains could not reach their spawning beds until after the spawning season, so there was no prospect of natural reproduction and other shipment was desired. The department is unable to comply with this request, because the steamers do not run so they can be sent.

Do You Still Carry

A "Roll" With You?

It used to be considered a sign of Prosperity to carry a large "roll" of bills around in one's pocket—but it is not so today.

In a recent auto hold-up by highwaymen, six prosperous business men were relieved of LESS THAN TWO HUNDRED DOLLARS. Why? Because prosperous business men today put their money where it is safe—in The Norway National Bank for instance—and pay their bills by check.

You not only insure against loss or theft, but you have the very best kind of a receipt—the cancelled check—for all payments made. By referring to your check book, you can tell at once just where you stand financially.

Join the army of prosperous men, who "Pay by Check" by opening an account with
